FUNNY PAGES AND INTERESTING FACTS

JOKE OF THE MONTH

Four friends were so confident the weekend before finals, they decided to go up to Dallas and party with some friends up there. After all the partying, they slept all day Sunday and didn't make it back to Austin until early Monday morning. Rather than taking the final, they decided to find their professor after the final and explain to him why they missed it. They explained that they had gone to Dallas for the weekend with the plan to come back and study but, unfortunately, they had a flat tire on the way back, didn't have a spare, and couldn't get help for a long time. As a result, they missed the final. The Professor thought it over and then agreed they could make up the final the following day. The guys were elated and relieved. They studied that night and went in the next day at the time the professor had told them. He placed them in separate rooms and handed each of them a test booklet, and told them to begin. They looked at the first problem, worth 5 points. It was something simple about free radical formation. "Cool," they thought at the same time, each one in his separate room. "This is going to be easy." Each finished the problem and then turned the page. On the second page was written: (For 95 points): Which tire?

WOULD YOU BELIEVE!!!

A woman called the Louisiana State Police to say she had received a phone call after midnight from a man who exclaimed, "I have killed them all!" Using the Caller ID on the woman's phone, officers tracked the call to Thomas Ballard, 29, of Delhi. Upon their arrival at his house, they found that Ballard had won a video game by "killing" all the "bad guys" -- and had called a friend to brag. He got a wrong number. No dead bodies were found in his house, but officers found he had an outstanding warrant on a drug charge, and arrested him.

FAMOUS QUOTES:

Groucho Marx - "Paying alimony is like feeding hay to a dead horse."

ON THIS DATE

On February 14, 1899 - The U.S. Congress approved voting machines for use in federal elections.

WEIRD BUT TRUE

In May 1999 a jury in Birmingham, Ala., ruled in favor of Barbara Carlisle and her parents in their lawsuit against two companies responsible for charging them 18 more monthly payments than what the salesman originally promised when they had two satellite dishes installed. The total overcharge was $1,224. The jury awarded the plaintiffs punitive damages of $581 million.

MORONS

Two muggers were working a crowd. They had just taken a cellphone and purse from a couple at knife point, when the woman screamed. The muggers sprinted away. But working a crowd and working out are entirely different things, and one of the muggers was out of shape. As he watched his compatriot recede into the distance, he felt the stitch in his side, and knew he could run no farther. Perhaps he was thinking he should have spent some of his ill-gotten gains on a trip to the gym. But then he spotted a high fence, and that, at least, he could manage. He put on a burst of speed, and leapt the fence. Sure enough, no one followed. Escape! But he had failed to take into consideration a very important fact. He was at the Bloemfontein Zoo. Just as he was congratulating himself on his foolproof escape, he realized that the other side of the fence was a 10 meter drop into a cage of bored Bengal tigers! Speaking of foolproof, the tigers wasted no time in treating the nearest fool as their own little kitty toy. The mauled body of the mugger was not noticed until noon.
