FUNNY PAGES AND INTERESTING FACTS

JOKE OF THE MONTH

A man asked his wife what she'd like for her 40th birthday. "I'd love to be six again," she replied. On the morning of her birthday, he got her up bright and early and off they went to a local theme park. What a day! He put her on every ride in the park: the Death Slide, the Screaming Loop, and the Wall of Fear, everything there was! Wow! Five hours later she staggered out of the theme park, her head reeling and her stomach upside down. Right to a McDonald's they went, where her husband ordered her a Happy Meal along with extra fries and a refreshing chocolate shake. Then, it was off to a movie - the latest Disney and what a fabulous adventure! Finally, she wobbled home with her husband and collapsed into bed. He leaned over and lovingly asked, "Well, dear, what was it like being six again?" One eye opened. "You idiot, I meant my dress size." The moral of this story is: When a woman speaks and a man is actually listening, he will still get it wrong.

FAMOUS QUOTES:

General Douglas MacArthur - "We are not retreating - we are advancing in another Direction."

ON THIS DATE

On September 12, 1954 - "Lassie" made its television debut on CBS. The last show aired on September 12, 1971.

WEIRD BUT TRUE

A frightening August headline in The Union (Grass Valley, Calif.): "S.W.A.T. Team Requested for Violent Midgets." In fact, they were steroid-using, bodybuilder midgets, headed by an apparently particularly dangerous "lead female."

WOULD YOU BELIEVE!!!

After police in Gainesville, Fla., arrested Steven Gilmore Jr., 21, they wondered what his violent robbery was about. Gilmore allegedly tried to rob a convenience store, and when the store clerk resisted, Gilmore shot him in the head. But the clerk wasn't seriously injured: Gilmore's gun was a BB pistol. Gilmore explained he was a rapper, and he needed to pull off a robbery to give himself "street credibility." He was charged with attempted armed robbery and aggravated assault.

MORONS

During a bout of heavy drinking that lasted into the wee hours of the morning, two drunks realized that although neither one had a pilot's license nor flight training, they nevertheless knew all they needed to know to pilot an aircraft. Furthermore, one of the gentlemen worked at the small local airport and had access to the tarmac. They drew the obvious conclusion, and decided to take a plane for a drunken joyride over the city. Once on the tarmac, the two then managed to break into a small plane, taxi to the runway, and get it off the ground and into the sky. This random aerial activity went on for an extended period of time as they buzzed around in the dark. Eventually their bladders began to complain, but they no longer remembered how to find the airport. Disoriented, they attempted to land on the grassy median between the east and west-bound lanes of the Trans-Canada Highway. They almost made it under the electrical wires that cross the median but the tail of the aircraft clipped the wires. Instead of making a soft landing on the grassy verge, the aircraft took a nose-first dive into the ground, killing both occupants.
