Note from Jackie:

Well, it's that time of year again that leagues are beginning their 2009 – 2010 season. That means its time to renew membership cards (Sanctions) again. So, as soon as you receive yours, be sure and bring it to the next Buzzard Club meeting/tournament and show it to me. You have until January 2010 to show it but sooner would be best for me. If you want, make a copy and fax it to me. Just call ahead so I can turn my fax machine on. My home phone & fax are the same but it won't work if I don't have it on for fax. Or, mail me a copy. Both are on the newsletter. Thanks!! Jackie

FUNNY PAGES AND INTERESTING FACTS

JOKE OF THE MONTH

Farmer Jake had a nagging wife who made his life miserable. The only real peace that he got was when he was out in the field plowing. One day when he was out in the field, Jake's wife brought his lunch to him. Then she stayed while he quietly ate and berated him with a constant stream of nagging and complaining. Suddenly, Jake's old mule kicked up his back legs, striking the wife in the head, and killing her instantly. At the wake, Jake's minister noticed that when the women offered sympathy to Jake he would nod his head up and down. But when the men came up and spoke quietly to him, he would shake his head from side to side. When the wake was over and all the mourners had left, the minister approached Jake and asked, 'Why was it that you nodded your head up and down to all the women and shook your head from side to side to all the men?' 'Well,' Jake replied, 'The women all said how nice she looked, and her dress was so pretty, so I agreed by nodding my head up and down. The men all asked, 'Is that mule for sale!''

WOULD YOU BELIEVE!!!

Two men walked into a bank in Slidell, La. The teller's worst fears were realized when one of them handed her a note announcing a robbery. When she hesitated he threatened to shoot her, but as she handed money over to the robber, the second man jumped into action. "Hey!" he shouted, "Don't take that woman's money!" The second man jumped the robber, knocking the cash out of his hand. As they fought on the floor another customer, unaware of the robbery, pulled the second man off the first, and he escaped -- without his coat, which contained his wallet. The second man, Harry G. Wilson, 42, had accompanied the robber to the bank, and says he was not aware that he was going to rob it. Police called him a hero "of sorts" -- they arrested him for drug possession. The robbery was apparently set up to pay Wilson for drugs, police say. Aided by the identification in his wallet, police are searching for the robber.

ON THIS DATE

On October 4, 1777 - At Germantown, PA, Patriot forces and British forces both suffer heavy losses in battle. The battle was seen as British victory, which actually served as a moral boost to the Americans.

WEIRD BUT TRUE

Jorge Iglesias petitioned a judge in Madison, Wis., to regain custody of his 66 roosters and hens that police confiscated in a suspected cockfighting raid. Iglesias said he feared that the Dane County Humane Society, temporarily holding the animals, was treating them with "cruel and barbaric" abuse.

MORONS

In March 1996, an 18-year-old dockworker at Roadway Express in Dallas was arrested at a local Western Union office and charged with forgery after trying to cash a check made out to his employer. The man produced a homemade photo ID that gave his name as Mr. "Roadway V. Express." After questioning him, the Western Union manager said, "OK, Mr. Express, I'll be right back (with the money)," but went into another room and called the police.
